UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT,
ALBEMARLE DISTRICT,
OCTOBER TERM, 1858.

THE FOLLOWING RULES WERE prescribed by the Court and ordered to be printed:

RULE No. 1.—Proctors of any Circuit or District Court of the United States, Attorneys and Counsellors of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity in the State of North Carolina, may on motion in open Court, or on presentation of their licenses to the Clerk in vacation, and counsellors and advocates of any Circuit or District Court, and Attorneys and Councellors of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity, may in like manner be admitted Counsellors and advocates of this Court, of course, on taking the oath or affirmation prescribed by the second rule of this Court.

RULE 2.—All persons admitted to practice in this Court shall in open Court, or if in vacation, before the Clerk, to be spread upon the minutes, take either an oath or affirmation to the tenor following: I, A. B., do solemnly swear or affirm (as the case may be) that I will demean myself as proctor, attorney and counsellor of this Court, uprightly and according to Law, and that I will support the Constitution of the United States. So help me God.

RULE 3.—The rules of practice of the Courts of the U. S. in cases of Admiralty and Maratime jurisdiction on the instance side of the Court, prescribed by the Supreme Court of the United States at the January Term, 1845, and the rules of said Court in addition or in modification of the same, are rules of practice in this Court in all cases of Admiralty and Maratime Jurisdiction.

RULE No. 4.—The newspaper called the Democratic Pioneer, published in Elizabeth City, is hereby designated, in pursuance of rule 9 of the rules of practice in admiralty and maratime cases prescribed by the Supreme Court, as the newspaper in which all notices shall be printed which are by the said rule required to be published in a newspaper.

RULE 5.—The Branch of the Bank of the State of North Carolina, in the town of Elizabeth City, is hereby designated in pursuance of rule 42 of the same rules as the place of deposit for moneys paid into Court.

RULE 6.—Upon filing libels in rem in the Clerk's office, except libels for seamen's wages, the libellant shall enter into a stipulation in the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, with good sureties, before the Clerk of this Court, to pay all costs and expenses which shall be awarded against him by any decree of this Court, or upon an appeal to the Appotate Court, and in case libellant prays for warrant of arrest of property and asks for such process to issue the libel shall be verified by oath or affirmation, and in such cases the libellant shall enter into an additional stipulation before the Clerk of the Court in the sum of five hundred dollars, with good sureties, to pay all damages which shall be awarded against him by any decree of this Court or upon an appeal, by the appotate Court, and thereupon shall issue the process that may be prayed for.

RULE 7.—When the libel is for salvage, the value of the property shall be appraised by the Commissioners of Navigation for the Port of Edenton, and the bond or stipulation to be taken by the Marshal from the claimant shall be in the amount of the appraised value.

RULE 8.—In case of arrest of property by the Marshal he shall cause public notice thereof and of the time assigned for the return of such process and the hearing of the cause (which shall be the next regular term of this court unless a different day is specially ordered by the court) to be given in the said Democratic Pioneer for three weeks.

RULE 9.—The Jury box now belonging to the court shall have two apartments, Nos. 1 and 2, secured with a lock and key—the key to be kept by the Marshal or his deputy and the box by the Clerk. The Clerk shall, from a list of free holders of the County of Chowan, who are well qualified to serve as jurors, (and the Clerk and Marshal or his deputy shall concur in opinion as to such qualification,) prepare a jury list for this Court, and write the names on small scrolls of paper of equal size and put them into the department in said box marked No. 1, and when a jury is ordered, there shall be drawn from said division No. 1, by a child not more than 10 years old, the number required by the order of the Court. As the scrolls are thus drawn from No. 1, they shall be put in the partition No. 2, until the scrolls in No. 1 are exhausted; and if the name of any person is drawn who has died, removed or become disqualified, the scroll with such name shall be destroyed and another drawn in its stead. The persons whose names are thus drawn and approved shall serve as jurors for the Court for which they are drawn, and the Clerk shall issue a Venire therefor to the Marshal. When the partition No. 1 is exhausted, then all the scrolls shall be returned to No. 1. And a new jury list may be formed whenever the Court may direct.

Ordered by the Court, that the foregoing rules be published in the Democratic Pioneer for three weeks.

POETRY.

From the Richmond Enquirer.

THE LITTLE MAIDEN.

BY ROB-ROY.

I know a little maiden,
A bright and winsome thing,
I see her gathering fuel
Or coming from the spring,
And her timid recognition
'Round my heart a halo fling.

Not for her are costly dresses,
Not for her are jewels rare—
But her wealth of golden tresses
Falling on her neck so fair
Form a head dress rich and radiant
For my maiden debonair.

The wild flowers are her jewels—
The sweetly budding rose—
She knows each sparkling streamlet
Where the modest violet blows,
And the dark depths of the forest
Where the lonely wild ash grows.

She loves the grand old mountains,
She loves each murmuring stream,
The glad and gushing fountains
Which in the sunlight gleam;
These the only threads of beauty
Mingled in her life's pure dream.

When o'er the gloomy forests,
The gentle moon appears,
And the night-bird's song of sadness,
On the whisp'ring breeze she hears,
Mingled thoughts of grief and gladness
Move her heart almost to tears.

When the radiant god of morning
Paints the distant eastern hill,
And bright flowers, with dew drops laden,
Lean o'er the tinkling rill,
Oh! what thoughts of love and beauty,
Through her inmost being thrill.

God preserve my little maiden,
All good and bright and pure!
And in each toil or trial
She is called on to endure.
May every care and sorrow,
To her final good enure!

May the world, with all its pleasure,
Leave her heart untouched and free;
May her loved and cherished treasure
Be her spotless purity;
And religion fill the measure,
For a bless'd eternity!

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE BROWN SILK DRESS.

'Why, Eliza! what a strange choice for a wedding dress! Your other dresses are in very good style, and you have a plenty of them, considering the changes in fashion—but a brown silk dress to be married in!—what a fancy in a girl of eighteen!'

'Tis true, my aunt, that my choice may seem somewhat sombre, but you know very well I am about to become the wife of a poor mechanic, who depends on his daily labor for support. As the wife of such a man, I must necessarily limit my expenditures to my circumstances, and have thought it better to purchase something which would be useful for sometime to come, than to consult my appearance as a bride for one short evening—especially as I see no strangers.'

'There is something in that. There is my Maria's wedding dress. She will never wear it again in the world. She had a white satin, with a lace dress over it. Oh, she did look beautiful! I do admire to see a handsome bride.'

'Yes, it is very well for those who can afford it. But it would be quite absurd for me to purchase an expensive dress for one or even a few evenings when by the expenditure of half the money, I can procure that which will be serviceable for years. But come, put on your bonnet and step over to our new house. It is all furnished, at least all that is finished. I value it more highly than I should if it were not so near my mother's.

'There, William has left this small parlor, this sitting room, and three chambers, to finish at his leisure, when he is out of employment. See how everything is arranged—so handy for my work.'

'You don't say you are going to do your own work!'

'Certainly, I do! There is but one apprentice, and I should think it strange if I could not do it with all ease.'

'My heart, what strange fancies you have? To be sure, it is well enough if you can bring your mind to it, but then folks do so different now-a-days. There is my Maria, she has moved into an elegant house, all furnished from top to bottom.—She keeps a great girl to do the work, and a little one to wait and tend. Oh, things do go on so beautifully, I promise you.'

'Her husband is a young lawyer, is he not?—is he wealthy?'

'Oh he is very well off. He does not get much practice yet, but I dare say he will in time. He had a thousand dollars at interest; besides, Maria would never have married a mechanic—their hands get so hard and black and their complexion, especially if they are exposed, get so brown. I would not wish to hurt your feelings, but I do think that for pride's sake, for the sake of the family, you might have made a different choice.'

'Oh, aunt,—excuse my laughing—I have yet to learn that a man's honest occupation, whether it produces hard hands, whether it gives the cheek a brown or pale hue, is any disparagement to him. You must get acquainted with William, and hear him converse. You will not think of his hard hands, and his animated, intelligent countenance will drive his bronzed skin quite out of your head. But come, you don't say anything about my furniture—and you must see my nice closets.'

'Oh, your furniture is well enough.—The less you have, the less you will have to take care of, you know.'

'Yes, we could not get much furniture. I insisted upon William taking the money which my grandfather left me, to pay off a few hundred dollars which he owed for this place, in order to enable us to begin even in the world. We have both such a horror of debt, that we are determined never to incur any if we can help it. See what a nice press for bed clothes this is!'

'Why, what a quantity of bed and table linen! it is really nice, too. You have more than my Maria has, I declare.'

'Yes, I always want an abundance of such things. This drawer is filled with towels—this is my ironing sheet and blanket, and this closet contains my tin and wooden ware.'

'I declare, Eliza, you are a strange, thoughtful child. I must tell you one thing about Maria that made us have a good hearty laugh. The Monday morning after she was married, the girl came to ask her where the tubs were, and don't you think the child had actually forgotten to buy a tub, a clothes line, or pins! She said it never popped into her head. But la! it wasn't strange—she had never been used to do anything of the kind.'

'I believe, aunt, I have shown you all now. We will go if you please. I hope you will not let my brown dress, or William's brown hands, frighten you away this evening.'

'Oh, no. But as I must take the stage for Maria's, early in the morning, you must allow me to retire early.'

* * * * * * * * *

'What fellows these Yankees are for combining elegance and usefulness,' said a Southern gentleman to himself as he stood on the piazza of the hotel in the town of ——. 'Sir,' said he, addressing himself to a venerable looking man near him, 'can you tell me who resides in that elegant cottage, where the grounds are laid out with so much taste?'

'Oh, that is Squire Bill Thorndike's. You must be a stranger in these parts not to know that.'

'I am, sir; and since he seems such a prominent member of society, I should be happy to know something of his history.'

'Oh, there is nothing remarkable in it, nothing at all, sir. His father was a man of great learning, but he nearly run through a fortune trying to live in style. He died, and left three boys. Their mother, who went from this place, was a woman of strong sense. She sold the property, paid off the debts, and had enough left to buy that little house to the left. It has but two rooms, and there is a garden attached to it. Here she put her boys out to trades. One to a mason, one to a wheelwright, and this Bill to a carpenter. Bill married the widow Perry's daughter. She was a right good scholar and she made an excellent wife. They got along wonderfully. Everybody wondered how it was. He did not make better wages than other men. It was no mystery to me, though, for I watched them pretty sharp.

'You never saw a great display of finery—such as laces, and flounces, and furbelows; you never saw him, before he kept a horse, riding much for pleasure. No, they both pulled one way, and took their pleasure in being sober, industrious and useful, and now they reap their reward in being universally respected. Now there isn't a man that has so much money to let as Squire Thorndike, and he is never hard and screwing about it as some are. He isn't stingy either. He has taken the two children of one Lawyer Willis to bring up, and he does as well by them as he does by his own. Lawyer Willis' wife was a kind of cousin to Squire Thorndike's wife. She was a dashy, showy girl. You'd have tho't the richest folks on earth were married when they had the knot tied. Poor fellow, he had a hard time, notwithstanding, to support his wife in style. He took to drink, and died. I have heard say that she turned up her nose at her cousin's match, but she little thought her boys would be glad to go to that same cousin for a home, while she would be glad to take up with the little house that Squire Thorndike's mother lived in.

'Ah, sir,' continued the old man, 'this is a changing world; but, to my mind, if folks would be more prudent and industrious, and give up hankering after things beyond their means, there would be more real good done in the world, and fewer changes."

TASTINGS OF PUNCH.

The libellers of the Fair Sex.—Men do not libel women one half as much as women do. Here is a proof of it:—

Bosom Friend.—Do you mean to tell me she never fainted?

Intimate Acquaintance.—No, never tried even! and there never was so good an opportunity!

Bosom Friend (triumphantly.)—Then she's reserving herself. You may be sure she has some other faint in view!

Evening Fashions.—Emily—Shall you dress much to-night, dear?

Lilian.—No, as little as possible—I am going to a ball.

English Misses and French Mademoiselles. The difference between them is this:—Your English miss flirts before she is married; your French mademoiselle gets married first, and flirts afterwards. Neither plan is safe, and both are objectionable.

Telegraphic Alphabet.—The Lindley Murrays of electricity are busy laying down a new alphabet for the use of the submarine telegraph. Mrs. Trimmer says, that the foundation of such an alphabet must be principally mutes and liquids.

'Ma,' said a little boy the other day, 'is that ugly clothing merchant up town a Hebrew?'

'Yes, I believe he is.'

'Well, then, if he had a wife wouldn't she be a Shebrew?'

THE ANGEL'S VISIT.

On a beautiful Spring morning, as a young mother completed her toilet, and was about to leave the room, she turned, as was her wont, to look at two lovely sleeping infants, with that fond affection, and holy love, and beaming joy, which mothers only know. As she turned from the cradle of the youngest (now with the angels,) the eldest, a little more than two years old, suddenly raised herself, and gazing upward, fixed her clear blue eyes on the mantel, while her face wore an expression of joy, such as I am sure, as angels only wear, she exclaimed, 'Oh, they are gone, mamma, they are gone!'

'What are gone?' said the mother gently—afraid that the tones of her voice would break the illusion. 'Oh, the little babies with wings—so many of them—and the booful (beautiful) flowers, oh, all around so pretty; they are gone, mamma!' and as her mother continued to question, the angel expression faded, and a look of disappointment settled on her countenance, and dispersed the radiance that shone there a moment before.

The child had been told of the beauties of a heavenly home—of the joy that awaits the redeemed. The opening leaf, the swelling bud, had been placed in those tiny hands, their beauties pointed out—daily had she been told and taught to admire the skill of the great Artist. She had been taught to love her little kneeling place, and at twilight to clasp her infant hands in prayer, before her couch was pressed by that gentle form. Was it a wonder, then, that her infant slumber should be sweet? that visions of Heaven should open to her view? that angel forms should throng her bed? that flowers, such as bloom only in the paradise of God, should be scattered thickly around her? Oh, was it—was it any wonder, that when that glorious vision vanished, the pleased expression lasted until her reason was convinced, that in her sleep Christ, the Saviour of sinners, had wooed her spirit to the realms of bliss, and that, in her waking, she was only with mamma? that the flowers had faded, that the angel forms were invisible?

May the Angel of the Covenant ever be around her pathway! may her heart, in early life, respond to the Spirit's call? may the Saviour be her best friend! may she be kept unspotted from the world, so that when life's cord is loosed, she may dwell where flowers never fade—a gem in the diadem of God, whose lustre shall never grow dim.—New York Evangelist.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

The Nebraska Post, under the above caption, says:

A few days since, we received a letter from a friend at the East, making inquiries in regard to our Territory, from which we clip the following questions, and append the answers:

'What kind of a country do you live in?'

'Mixed and extensive. It is made up principally of land and water.

'What kind of weather?'

'Long spells of weather are frequent. Our sunshine comes off principally during the day time.'

'Have you plenty of water, and how got?

'A good deal of water scattered about, and generally got in pails and whiskey.'

'Is it hard?'

'Rather so, when you have to go half a mile, and wade in mud knee deep to get at it.'

'What kind of buildings?'

'Allegroric, Ionic, Anti-Caloric Log and Slabs. The buildings are chiefly out-doors, and so low between joints that the chimneys all stick out through the roof.

'What do your people do for a living mostly?'

'Some work, some laze round, one a shrewd business manager, and several drink whiskey.'

'Is it cheap living there?'

'Only five cents a glass, and the water thrown in.'

'Any taste for music?'

'Strong. Buzz and buck-saws in the day time, and wolf howling and cat fighting nights.'

'Any pianos there?'

'No, but we have several cow-bells; and a tin pan in every family.'

'Any manufactories?'

'Every household. All our children are home productions.'

'What could a genteel family in moderate circumstances do there for a living?'

'Work, shave notes, fish, hunt, steal, or, if hard pinched, buy and sell town property.'

'Are your people intelligent?'

'Some know everything that happens and some things that do not.'

'Would they appreciate a well bred family of sons and daughters?'

'Certainly. Great on blood stock; would take them to our next Territorial Fair and exhibit them.'

'Dear friend, your questions are answered. Bring on your well-bred stock, and make your home with us.'

'I would have you know, my friend, that I speak from a knowledge of the truth.'

'Oh yes, fully a thousand miles from the slightest knowledge of it.'

A Kentuckian being asked how much corn he raised, answered:—'About ten barrels of whiskey, besides what we waste for bread.'

ORTHOGRAPHY.—'Thomas, spell ingenuity.'

'Yes, sir:—Indian know-a-Ty.'

'Go to the head.'

'What makes you spend your time so freely, Jack?' 'Because it's the only thing I have to spend.'

A lady up town refuses to wear a watch in her bosom, because it has hands on it.

DULL CHILDREN.—The teacher of a large school had a little girl under her care, who was exceedingly backward in her lessons. She was at the bottom of the class, and seemed to care but little about what passed in it. During the school hours singing was sometimes employed as a relaxation, and noticing that this girl had a very clear sweet voice, her teacher said to her:

'Jane, you have a good voice, and you may lead in the singing.'

She brightened up, and from that time her mind seemed more active. Her lessons were attended to, and she made steady progress. One day, as the teacher was going home, she overtook Jane and one of her school-fellows.

'Well, Jane,' said she, 'you are getting on very well at school; how is it that you do so much better now than you did at the beginning of the half year?'

'I do not know why it is,' replied Jane. 'I know what she told me the other day,' said her companion who was with her.

'And what was that?' asked the teacher.

'Why, she said she was encouraged.'

Yes, there was the secret—she was encouraged. She felt she was not dull in everything; she had learned self-respect, and thus she was encouraged to self-improvement.

Take the hint, dear fellow-teacher, and try to reach the intellect through the heart. Endeavor to draw out the dormant faculties of your children by discriminating culture and well timed praise. Give them the credit whenever you can, and allure them with hopeful words. Many a dull-minded child has been made irretrievably stupid by constant fault-finding or ungenerous sarcasm. And, on the other hand, how often has a genial smile or an approving remark awakened into new life some slow-learning scholar.

HOOPS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE LOSS OF SOULS.—The editor of the Blue Ridge Republican, published at Culpepper Court House, Va., adds another to the long catalogue of sins, for which ladies' hoops are to be held responsible. He has been prevented by this enormous fashion, from hearing the gospel expounded. The way this has been brought about, we prefer letting the editor aforesaid, tell in his own way as follows:

One of three things must be done. Our churches must be enlarged, the way to Heaven made broader, or the ladies persuaded to reduce the circumference of their hoops. We repaired to the Presbyterian Church on Sunday last, and after vainly endeavoring to obtain a seat—some fifteen or twenty being in the same predicament—returned home without hearing the sermon. Others did the same. On the gentleman's side there was no possible chance, for they were packed as thick as herrings. But it was different on the side occupied by the ladies. If they, or rather their skirts, had taken up only their legitimate space, from two or three more, we think, could have been accommodated in each pew. Now if any poor sinner was prevented, thereby, from hearing something which might have awakened a religious spirit in his heart, and saved him from a downward career—an opportunity which accident, disease or death, may prevent him from having again—who or what, we would like to know, will be responsible for the loss of his soul? Hoops, of course. And as this thing has doubtless happened elsewhere, and will happen here and elsewhere again, we think we are not wrong in denouncing these brass-ribbed balloons—'Heaven Preventers.'

BEARDING THE LION IN HIS DEN.

Russia is boldly taking position in the very front and teeth of French and English domination, in the Mediterranean.—The town and harbor of Villa-franca lately obtained, on lease, from Sardinia—the ally of France and England in their gigantic fiasco in the Crimea—is within ten miles of France, two miles from Nice, and in the most favorable position for becoming a small Sebastopol in the heart of the Mediterranean. General la Marmora has just notified the Piedmontese troops occupying the barracks round that harbor that they must forthwith evacuate the same, and retire on Nice; which town, taking alarm lest a quarantine or lazaretto establishment should be set up at Villa-franca, so near their watering place, the worthy General tranquilized them by announcing officially 'that the seaport of Villa-franca is now part and portion of all the Russias, and that the new proprietors are the Steam Company for trade by steamers to and from Odessa.'

England must now yield the autocracy of that sea to Russia and France, who will henceforth regulate it to suit their especial policy. Turkey may now dispose her robes for a decent death. The end is no longer hidden behind the clouds of a distant future; and so far as we are concerned, we are piously resigned to the will of Providence.—States.

AN ELOQUENT EXTRACT.—'Generation after generation,' says a fine writer, 'have felt as we now feel, and their lives were as active as our own. They passed like a vapor, while Nature wore the same aspect of beauty as when her Creator commanded her to be. The heavens shall be as bright over our graves as they are now around our paths. The world will have the same attraction, for our offspring yet unborn, that she had once for our children. Yet a little while and all will have happened. The throbbing heart will be stifled, and we shall be at rest. Our funeral will wind its way, and the prayers will be said, and then we shall be left behind in silence and darkness for the worm. And it may be for a short time we shall be spoken of, but the things of life will creep in, and our names will soon be forgotten. Days will continue to move on, and laughter and song will be heard in the room in which we died; and the eye that mourned for us will be dried, and glisten again with joy; and even our children will cease to think of us, and will not remember to lisp our names.'

WAX FIGURES VS. SHAKESPEARE.—A showman, named Ward, recently addressed the Cleveland Plaindealer quite an original and forcible essay on the superiority of an exhibition of wax figures over the performances of Shakspeare's plays. Here it is:

I'm travellin with a tent which is better nor hirin halls. My show consists of a serious of wax works, a panotamy called a Grand Movin Diarea of the War in the Crymear comic songs and the Cangaroo, which last little cuss continues to conduct himself in the most outrageous style. I started out with the idea of making my show a grate Moral Entertainment, but I'm compelled to swar so much at that air infernal Cangeroo that I'm afraid this dodge sine will be illustrated to some extent. And while speaking of morality reminds me that sum folks turn up their noses at shows like mine, saying they is low and not fit to be patronized by people of high degree. Sure i maintain that this is unfernal nonsense. I maintain that wax figures is more elevation than all the plays ever wroten. Take Shakespeer for instance. People think he's grate things, but I contend he is quite the reverse to the contrary. What sort of sense is there to King Lear who goes round cussin his darters, chawin hay and throwing straws at folk, and larfin like a silly old koot and making a ass of himself generally? There's Mrs Macbeth, she is a nice kind of woman to have, ain't she a putting old Mac, her husband, up to slaying Duncun with a cheese knife, while he is payin a friendly visit to their house. O it's highly morality i spoze, when she larfs wildly and sez "gin me the daggers—i'le let his bowels out," or words to that effeck—i say this is all strictly proper, I spoze? That Jack Fawlstaf is likewise a immoral old cuss take him how ye may, and Himlit is as crazy as a loon. There's Richurd Thurd—people think he is grate things, but i look upon him in the lite of a monster. He kills everybody he takes a noshun to, in cold blood, and then goes to sleep in his tent; Bimeby he wakes up and yells for a boss, so he can go orf and kill sum more people. If he is not a fit specimen for the gallies then i should like to know ware yu find um? There's Iorgo who is more ornery nor pixun. See how shameful he treated that highly respecterble injun gentlemun Mr. Otheller, makin him for to bealeve his wife was tu thick with Cashco. Observe how Iergo got Cashco drunk as a biled owl on corn whiskey in order to carry out his sneakin designes. See how he works Mister Otheller's feelings up so that he goes and makes a poor Desdemony swaller a piller which causes her deth. But i must stop. At sum future time i shall continue my remarks on the drammer, in which i show the vast superiority of wax figgers, mixt and other fixins in a interlectual pint of view.

"The gentlemen of the fancy" who were present at the brutal prize fight are thus enumerated in an Albany (N. Y.) paper: Short Boys and Long Boys, Croppies, Dead Rabbits, and Live Rabbits, from New York; Fly-by-nights, Killers, and Vampyres, from Philadelphia; Blood Tubs, Plug Uglies, Rip Rips, and Rough Skins, from Baltimore; Thugs from New York et id omne genus from all over.

A Quaker and a Baptist traveling together in a stage coach, the latter took every opportunity of ridiculing the former on account of his religious profession. At length they came to a heath, where the body of a malefactor, lately executed, was hanging in chains upon the gibbet.

'I wonder, now,' said the Baptist, 'what religion he was of?'

'Perhaps,' replied the Quaker coolly, 'he was a Baptist, and they hung him up to dry.'

An old, ragged, red-faced, forlorn-looking woman accosted us with, 'Plaise, Sur, for the luv of Heaven, give me a fip to buy bread with; I am a poor, lone woman, and have twins to support.'

'Well, my good woman,' we replied, 'you seem to be too old to have twins of your own.'

'They're not mine, Sur,' she replied, 'I'm only raisin' 'em.'

'How old are your twins?'

'One of 'em is seven weeks ould and t'other is eight months.'

WHAT MONEY DOES.—'Fanny, don't you think that Mr. Bold is a handsome man?'

'Oh, no; I can't endure his looks. He is homely enough—'

'Well, he is fortunate at all events; for an old aunt has just died, and left him fifty thousand dollars.'

'Indeed! is it true? Well, now, I come to recollect, there is a certain noble air about him; and he has fine eyes, that can't be denied.'

A western editor recently defeated as a candidate for Congress says: "Editors have no business to run for office. Their business is to work and let others enjoy the fruits of their labor." They make the fortunes and the greatness of other men, but are expected to find their reward in the proud contemplation of their works."

A model young lady, just graduated from a certain distant academy, remarked the other day: "I cannot deceive how the young gentlemen can drink to such a recess, when they know it is so conjurious to their institutions."

The busy body, some one says—'labors without thanks, talks without credit, lives without love, dies without tears, without pity—save that some say, 'It was a pity he died no sooner.'

A person reading the funeral service at the grave, forgot the sex of the deceased and asked one of the mourners, an Irish alder, 'is this a brother or a sister?'

'Neither,' replied Pat, 'only a cousin.'

ELIZABETH CITY:

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 9, 1858.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

In another place we publish an article from the New York Herald upon a speech recently delivered by that arch-agitator and unceasing villifier of the South, William H. Seward. In the position which he assumes, according to the Herald's article, we have the programme for the campaign of 1860. The opinion enunciated may be fairly taken as the opinion of the whole Republican party, not only in New York, but of the entire country; the platform which he so boldly lays down will be sustained by the anti-slavery party in every State in the Confederacy. If used by any other man, the language contained in the speech would be regarded as the idle declamation of a brawling fanatic or the ad captandum twaddle so often adopted to embellish the harangues of abolition demagogues; but when its author is the wily, calculating, cool headed, far-seeing, but unprincipled Seward, it may be considered as the voice of the party of which he is the acknowledged head, and as developing the tactics of the freesoilers in the coming contest for national supremacy. We may assert this point as settled, so far as New York is concerned, by the vote which she has just given. The diabolical sentiments attributed to Seward were uttered during the campaign and in support of the candidates of the Black Republicans. As a part and parcel of their creed, promulgated by the high priest of abolitionism, they were received, and endorsed on the day of election by a majority of 20,000 votes. These sentiments will constitute the main plank in the platform of the anti-slavery party in 1860.

What does Mr. Seward say to the people of the Southern States? What is the language which he holds towards fifteen of the States of this Union? What is the course which this man, a member of the U. S. Senate, sworn to uphold and support the constitution, delares will be adopted by his numerous satellites and confederates in the work of destruction, towards the slaveholding section of the Republic? Does he not tell them distinctly and emphatically that the coming contest is to be a contest for political existence? a war of extermination to one or the other—the North or the South? a struggle that is to result in the crushing out of slavery or its spread throughout the free States? Does he not boldly proclaim that the time has arrived when the institutions of one State must assimulate to those of another, and that no longer will one portion of the Union be allowed to regulate its own affairs except at the will and pleasure of the other? What does he mean when he says "The United States must and will, sooner or later, become, either entirely a slaveholding nation, or entirely a free labor nation," if he does not mean that henceforth an exterminating warfare must be waged between the two sections, and that either slavery will be swept away, or extended until it takes in the entire North? To suppose that he intended to convey any other meaning is to place him on the catalogue of fools, for Seward knows that the South will never relinquish slavery except with life, and that it can never exist in the North so long as it is their interest to keep it out; and farther, he has no idea that it will, by any possible contingency, be introduced North of Mason and Dixon's line, and it was but a waste of words to suggest it. His purpose would have been better effected, had he simply stated that the United States must and will" be free, and that very soon if we can by blood and slaughter make it so. This was the obvious signification of the declaration, and the policy which he intended to shadow forth.

The party sanctioning and endorsing such accursed sentiments is the party that has just triumphed over the National Democracy in New York—the same party that were victorious in Pennsylvania, and that were successful in Ohio. It is the same party that has elected the white-livered poltroon, the base hearted, contemptible, polluted wretch, Anson Burlingame, who in a speech the other day advised the people of Massachusetts to shut the slaveholder from their houses and refuse to shake their bloody hands. What a prospect is there ahead for the friends of the Union! What cause for exultations and congratulations among the Southern enemies of the Democratic party!

NEW GOODS.—See the advertisement of Mr. S. Weisel, in to-day's paper. Mr. W. has in store a large and beautiful assortment of Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing &c., and ladies and gentlemen will find among his stock any article which they may want. Mr. Weisel will be found polite and obliging, and is pleased to show his goods to all who are desirous of purchasing, whether they buy of him or not. Ladies wishing their bonnets trimmed will do well to call on Mrs. Weisel. Store on Road Street, nearly opposite the Branch Bank of the State of North Carolina.

THE ELECTIONS.

We give elsewhere the result of the elections in the States that voted last week. That result may be stated in a few words. The Democracy have been badly beaten and the black banner of abolitionism floats triumphantly over the Northern States. In New York, out of thirty-three Congressmen the Democrats have elected but eight members, and the Republican plurality is some 20,000 votes for Governor. When we take into consideration the influence which this election may exert upon the battle of 1860, we have good reason for fear and anxiety. It is not the mere defeat of the Democratic party that should cause us uneasiness; but the victory just achieved is a victory over the South and the Constitution, and the success of the "bloody programme" laid down by the traitorous Seward, and as such, the slaveholding States have just cause to apprehend a fearful ending to the Presidential campaign next to come. If the issue is to be the one promulgated by Seward—and who can doubt it?—and the war is to be a war of extermination to slavery; if the question to be decided be the extension of slavery to the Northern States, or in the adaption of free labor upon the cotton, sugar, and rice plantations of the South, and this election is to be taken as reflex of that of 1860, we imagine that it will not require a prophet to predict the consequences inevitable upon such a result. The hopes of the Union were in the National Democracy; the hopes of the South centered in their Northern allies; the first has been defeated, the last has been stricken down. Let those rejoice who are prepared to meet the fearful catastrophe which it may produce.

ILLINOIS.

The returns from this State show a majority of Douglasites in both branches of the Legislature, which ensures the re-election of S. A. Douglas to the U. S. Senate. As we have before remarked, between the "Little Giant" and his ultra Black Republican competitor, Abram Lincoln, we could not hesitate. A consistent administration Democrat would have been far more desirable than Douglas, but as the contest was narrowed down to him or Lincoln, we are truly rejoiced that the former has triumphed. Douglas has declared his unalterable attachment to the Democratic party; this no doubt gave him the State; it also insures Illinois to us in 1860.

☞ We cheerfully comply with the request of the Rev. Alfred A. Watson, and publish the following notice of the Ladies' Fair, to be held in the town of Plymouth, during the week of Washington County Court:

A FAIR.—The ladies connected with the Sewing Society of Grace Church, Plymouth, N. C., propose to hold a Fair, for the sale of fancy and other articles and refreshments, during the November session of the County Court, to aid in the erection of a new church in that place. The Fair to commence on Monday, the 15th day of November. Visitors are invited, and any contributions to the object in view, will be thankfully received.

Dinner will be provided on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Admission 25 cents. Tickets for the whole fair, 50 cents.

☞ Our cotemporary of the Warrenton News keeps "sloshing around" generally on Governors members of Congress and other dignitaries. It's "all a muddle to us." Perhaps those about the centre who manage things, understand what's in the wind. We outsiders do not. The nearest State officer came from Goldsboro'. In this region we only look on and wonder at the squabbles. Mayhap we shall see what we shall see.—Wilmington Journal.

Same over here. We people "down East in the State of" North Carolina know very little of the Metropolitan squabbles.

COMMON SCHOOLS.—The statement of the amount distributed among the several counties of the State for the support of Common Schools, has been published, and shall appear in our next. This (Pasquotank) county, with a population of 7,708, receives $924 96, less seventy-five dollars—the last-named amount coming under the head of "Deduct for Deaf and Dumb."

NORTH CAROLINA PLANTER.—A. M. Gorman, Publisher. The November number of the Planter, the first that we have received for some months, is upon our table. The Agriculturist will find it a useful auxilliary to his operations.

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE.—We have received the September number of this highly valuable and interesting standard work. Its contents are as usual with Blackwood—worthy of perusal. Leonard Scott & Co., New York, publishers.

☞ Notwithstanding the terrible disasters encountered by the Democracy in the loss of members of Congress, we have gained in the popular vote, in thirteen States that voted, ONE HUNDRED AND THREE THOUSAND VOTES. Such is a calculation made by the New York Journal of Commerce.

NORTH CAROLINA JOURNAL OF EDUCATION, for November. We have before recommended this publication to our readers, and we take pleasure in again doing so.—The present number is filled with much that is valuable, and our good old State would do well to encourage its circulation.

☞ Prof. Rarey, the American Horse Tamer, is in attendance at the Petersburg Fair. The officers of the Society have tendered to him the use of a hall on the Grounds, for his experiments.

☞ The "Spirit of the Age" announces with regret the death of its associate editor; Dr. Wm. M. Johnson.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Below will give all the news that we have received from the election. Some comments will be found in another column.

NEW YORK STATE OFFICERS.

Governor, Edwin D. Morgan, Rep.

32 E. G. Spaulding, Rep.
33 Reuben E. Fenton, Rep.

In the 2d District Humphrey, who was the candidate of the united Republicans and Know-Nothings, has about 800 majority over Litchfield (Dem.) The Democratic vote was divided between Litchfield and Taylor, (present member.)

The 3d was the most hotly contested District in the city. Desperate efforts were made to defeat Daniel E. Sickles, the Tammany nominee. The Wood Democrats supported Hiram Walbridge. The returns give Sickles 138 majority over Williamson (Opp.) and 269 majority over Walbridge. The Opposition are to contest Sickles' seat on the ground of frauds in voting.

In the 4th District three Democrats, a Republican and a Know Nothing were up for Congress. Thomas J. Barr (Dem.) leads the race, being 1469 ahead of the next highest candidate.

The 5th gives Maclay (Dem.) 819 over Hamilton, A. L. Democrat.

In the 6th John Cochrane is re-elected, beating McCurdy, (Opp.) by 1441.

The Opposition united in the 7th upon Geo. Briggs. The present member, Gen. Ward, is defeated by 1,388. He has, however, a larger vote than in 1856, when he slipped in between the Republican and American candidates.

The following is the vote for Governor in New York city:—

Parker, Dem.	40,881
Morgan, Rep.	21,766
Burrows, K. N.	6,947
Smith, Abo.	63

The estimated majority for Mr. Morgan in the State is 20,000.

ILLINOIS.

The returns indicate the triumph of Stephen A. Douglas. The vote, however, is close. The Administration vote is very small. As far as heard from, the Legislature stands as follows:

Senate—Democrats, 14; Republicans, 10; not heard from, 1.

House of Representatives—Republicans, 34; Democrats, 38; in doubt, 3.

The Tribune and the Chairman of the Republican State Committee acknowledge a Democratic majority of four of each House.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Despatches to the States newspaper say the latest returns in Illinois indicate that Douglas will have a majority of both Houses of the Legislature, and a large majority of the popular vote over both the other parties.

NEW JERSEY.

The republicans and anti-Lecomptonites have carried this State. The Congressmen elect are:—

1st district—John T. Nixon, opposition—no change. 2d district—John L. N. Stratton, republican—no change. 3d district—G. B. Adrian, anti-Lecompton dem.—no change. 4th district—J. R. Riggs, anti-Lecompton dem., in place of John Huyler, Lecompton dem. 5th district—Ex-Governor Pennington, republican, in place of Wortendyke, dem.

In the Legislature parties will stand as follows: Senate—Opposition 8, democrats 13. House—Opposition 35, democrats 25.

As the opposition have a majority on joint ballot of five over democrats in the legislature, Mr. Wright, the present democratic U. S. Senator, will fail of a re-election. As to his successor, however, there is some doubt, as the opposition include several anti-Lecompton democrats:

DELAWARE.

The Democratic State ticket and a Democratic Legislature is elected. William Burton, (Dem.) is chosen Governor and Wm. G. Whiteley, (Dem.) is elected to Congress.

WISCONSIN.

Returns very meagre, but indicate the re-election of John F. Potter, C. C. Washburn and Chas. Billinghurst, Republicans, to Congress.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The vote for Governor is as follows: Banks, (Rep.) 65,091; Beach, (Dem.) 36,669; Lawrence, (Am.) 11,622—fifteen towns to be heard from. The vote shows a Democratic gain of about 5000. The eleven members of Congress elect are all Republicans. They are as follows: Thomas D. Eliot, James Buffington, Chas. Francis Adams, (son of John Quincy Adams,) A. H. Rice, (Ex-Mayor of Boston,) Anson Burlingame, John B. Alley, Daniel W. Gooch, Charles R. Train, Eli Thayer, Charles Delano and H. L. Dawes. Burlingame's majority over Col. Heard the nominee of the National men, is 412. Poor Massachusetts! The legislature is largely Black Republican, ensuring the re-election of Henry Wilson, unless the dictator Banks wants his place.

MICHIGAN.

This State gave Fremont 19,626 majority. The returns from fifteen counties show the Republican candidate for Governor (Winser) 6,300 ahead, with large Democratic gains. In the 1st District for Congress, Cooper, (Dem.) is reported elected—a Democratic gain. The other Congressmen probably chosen are Henry Waldron, Francis W. Kellogg and Dewitt C. Leach, all Republicans.

Of the 60 members of the XXXVIth Congress just chosen, the indications are that 49 will be Republicans, 10 Anti-Lecompton Democrats, and 7 Administration Democrats. The same seats are filled in the present Congress by 45 Republicans, 8 Anti-Lecompton Democrats, and 13 Administration Democrats; an Administration loss of 6.

MICHIGAN ELECTION.

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—Cooper, Dem., is elected in the first Congressional district by about 100 majority. The fourth district is in doubt.

The present indications are that the Legislature will stand thus: Senate—Republicans 22, Democrats 10. House—Republicans 46, Democrats 33.

The whole Republican State ticket is elected by 6,000 to 10,000 majority.

For the Pioneer.

MR. EDITOR: I see that members elect to the Legislature are expressing their preferences for the Speakership of the respective Houses: and why may not the sovereigns do the same thing? We feel some interest also in these appointments. For one, (and I believe there are many of my opinion,) I should be glad to see Mr. Clark or Mr. Bridgers, of Edgecombe, fill one of the chairs—not only because one of those positions is due to the East, and either of the gentlemen named is eminently qualified to fill it, but also because it is a known fact that they are not sold to any rail-road interest, and that when the management of these roads shall come up (as it will) for enquiry before the Legislature, those gentlemen have the firmness and independence to appoint such a committee as will examine thoroughly and report faithfully and fairly thereupon.

It is well known to you that the chief cry of the opposition is against the alleged extravagance of the present State administration; and rumor says that the Central Rail Road is evidence thereof. At the last session of the Legislature, a bill was introduced authorizing a loan or an endorsement of the bonds of said Road for something less than four hundred thousand dollars at eight per cent. interest per annum, (a less interest not securing purchasers,) as it was urged by the President to pay off the debts of his predecessor in office, which were up to that time unknown to him, and which seriously embarrassed him—promising that if the Legislature would pass the bill, he would pledge himself that one million of the State stock should be considered and held to be preferred, and that upon that sum six per cent. ($60,000) in cash should be annually paid into the public treasury of the State. Was there the first dime paid in 1857? Will there be in 1858? The Treasury Report will be forthcoming in a few days, and we shall see. The presumption is, we shall be pointed to the palatial workshops and the magnificent Hotel—the latter to be kept by the Rail Road Company! Really, this is a new feature in rail-roading—the Company turning inn-keeper! If the profits of the Hotel are to be the source from which the burthen of western taxes is to be relieved, the sooner it is known the better—not only for the interest of the tax-payers, but for the preservation of the Democratic party in the East.

Now, I hold that the election of either of the gentlemen above named, will secure the appointment of such a committee as will give a full and truthful statement of the condition and management of such roads as the State is interested in—be they what they may; and if these extravagances be what rumor says, let the Democratic party in the Legislature, as evidence of their sincerity, hold every public servant or agent implicated to the most rigid accountability, and visit upon them that meed of censure that will secure a different order of things for the future.

CORPORATION PROCEEDINGS.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., November 1st, 1858.

The Corporation of Eliz. City met.—Present—W. W. Kennedy, Mayor; Jos. Lawrence, S. D. Cartwright, W. T. Hinton, Commissioners.

Mr. L. D. Starke, who was duly elected at the last meeting, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of T. Allen, was present, and took the following oath:—I, Lucien D. Starke, do solemnly swear upon the Holy Evangelist of Almighty God, to support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of North Carolina, and faithfully discharge the duties of Commissioner of the Corporation of E. City.

(Signed,) L. D. STARKE.

In presence of (Signed,) Jos. H. Pool, J. P.

The following Bills were allowed, viz: Willis Bright, $13.04; Hinton & Lee, $6.25; Thos. Brothers, $9.19; J. Cartwright, $77.06.

Ordered that the following accounts be placed in the hands of the Constable for collection, viz:—Peter Copes' Estate, for $1.60, Trustees of Episcopal Church $5.16; J. K. Long, $1.27; J. A. Raper, $7.08; A. L. Jones, $17.90, T. Brothers, $2.33; Jno. Williams, $4; and J. W. Hinton, $156.

Adjourned.

W. W. KENNEDY, Mayor.
W. T. HINTON, Sec'y pro-tem.

HON. JESSE G. SHEPHERD.—We are glad to learn that our esteemed fellow-citizen, whose name heads this article, has consented to let his name come before the next Legislature for Judge of the Superior Courts of North Carolina. Judge Shepherd is now riding the first judicial circuit under the appointment of the Governor and his council. It was at first doubtful whether he would consent to hold the appointment longer than the meeting of the Legislature, but we learn that he has consented to let his friends in the Legislature show their approval of Gov. Bragg's appointment by his election to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Judge Person.

Judge Shepherd has always been a hard student; he is an able lawyer, and will reflect credit on the bench. His associates at the bar in counties where he practised will regret to part with him. Courteous and respectful to all with whom he came in contact, he enjoys the confidence and respect of all parties. He will carry with him to the bench the best wishes of all who know him. Of his election by the Legislature there can be no doubt.

From the New York Herald.

THE BRUTAL AND BLOODY MANIFESTO OF SEWARD—THE TRUE ISSUE IN 1860.

Politicians have been cavilling and groping about, and parties quarrelling and breaking up, because there was no great question before the country under which to draw the broad and distinct lines of party organization, and upon which the popular verdict shall be rendered in 1860.

But there is now no more room for cavil. A grave Senator—one who has had a long experience, who is looked upon by his followers as a calm, sedate and profound thinker, who is held to be the Mentor of the Republican party—has announced the principles under which that party will go into the coming political conflict, and the ends it hopes to attain. In a recent speech, which we publish elsewhere, Mr. Seward rallies his political friends and partisans to go into the conflict and decide whether the cotton, rice and sugar fields of the South, shall be ultimately tilled by free labor, or whether the rye and wheat fields of New York and New England must be surrendered to slave culture and to the production of slaves. The United States, says Mr. Seward, "must and will, sooner or later, become, either entirely a slaveholding nation, or entirely a free labor nation." Such is the brutal and bloody programme laid down by Senator Seward as the platform of the Republican party, and which that party accepts. Before such an issue as this all other issues sink into insignificance. The Kansas humbug, the squatter sovereignty fallacy, the petty quarrels between the adherents of the Administration and those of Douglas, the cries of a protective tariff, of a new naturalization law, and the thousand other petty party questions of the day, are all ephemeral in their nature, and will disappear before the great social and political conflict which this programme inaugurates.

We call it a brutal and bloody programme, for it is nothing more than the announcement of a fierce war that is to be made upon the social and political organization of the Southern States. The pretended alternative, that the North must give up its rye and wheat fields to slave culture if those of the South are not given up to free negroes, is all a humbug. Such an alternative can never by any possibility occur. We have all the life, all the energy, and all the intelligence that belong to an unmixed race and a homogeneous population. In a national point of view we have all the activity, all the trade, all the education, all the wealth and the greatest part of the rascality of the country. The idea, therefore, of the South ever forcing its institutions or its niggers upon us is perfectly preposterous.

But we can make a war upon the South: and if the North is united in so doing it must succeed. And this is what Mr. Seward wishes to attain. We must not only retain the right of self-government for ourselves, but we must insist upon attaining the right of governing the South according to our ideas, and not permitting them to govern themselves according to their own. At our behest the entire organization of society in the Southern States must be changed. It must be made homogeneous like our own, or like that of Saint Domingo and Jamaica. At present they have no defence against our forcing them to effect this, if we have the will to do so, other than the Constitution.—But the Constitution can be changed by a two-thirds vote, says Mr. Seward, and if we Northerners do not change it and make it a free Constitution, the South will go on annexing territory, and will eventually make a slave Constitution of it. We must, therefore, make a savage war upon the South, and win the victory in 1860. Such is the programme with the Republican party; and they will endeavor to carry it out.

It therefore behooves our merchants and our manufacturers, our farmers and our mechanics, our men of wealth and our laborers, to consider well what would be the result upon themselves and their own interests if this brutal and bloody programme should succeed. The interests of the North and the South are bound together by indissoluble ties of sympathy. What injures the one must perniciously affect the other. Our commerce, our manufactures, our railroads and great ways of intercommunication, depend in a large degree upon the untrammelled markets of supply and consumption in the South; and upon those depend the value of our labor, our lands and possessions, all our material interests, and the development of our moral powers. No great injury can be done to the organization of society without destroying its power, both of production and consumption. The social organization of the South may be compared to a piece of cloth composed of equal parts of linen and cotton. Abstract reasoners may say that such a mixed cloth is not so good as one composed entirely of linen, which is stronger and more valuable material, and that we should make the texture all linen, in order to increase its value. But a mixture of linen and cotton is better for certain purposes than all linen would be. Besides, if we draw or destroy the woof, which is composed of cotton, we leave only a tangled web, which can serve no purpose until it is again woven into cloth. So it is with the South. Its social organization of black labor, directed by white intelligence, is better for the material and moral interests of itself and the whole world, under its conditions of climate and soil, than would be a society composed entirely of the white race. And if that organization is once destroyed, the whole web of society there must be reconstructed before it can serve any useful purpose to civilization.

This is the new issue that is flung out by the Republican party, and upon which the first vote will be taken next Tuesday, in the struggle between Parker and Morgan for the Governorship of the Empire State of New York. Every vote cast for Morgan will be a vote for Seward's brutal and bloody programme. If Morgan is elected, even by a bare plurality, New York will take the lead in inaugurating the social war that will be made an issue everywhere in 1860. Is New York prepared to do this? Will she take the vanguard in a fight which, if it succeeds, must destroy more than one-half of the commerce of her metropolis, and diminish, to a great extent, the value of every dollar's worth of property throughout the State and her sister States? Men of New York! you are called upon to decide these questions.

The slowest advances to greatness are the most secure. Swift rises are often attended with precipitate falls; and what is soon got, is generally short in the possession.

INVEIGLEMENT OF A YOUNG LADY INTO A HOUSE OF ILL-FAME.

The New York correspondent of the Boston Atlas and Bee narrates the following singular case of the inveiglement of a young lady into a house of ill-fame, the particulars of which have not before appeared in print:

The young lady, most respectably connected, was on the street a pleasant afternoon, unattended, upon a shopping expedition, when she was accosted by a well dressed lady who stated she had been seized by sudden illness, and begged to be assisted to her home, which was but a short distance. Her air and manner were apparently so sincere, that not doubting but she was rendering the woman a kindness, the young lady at once acceded to her request, and accompanied her to a house in the vicinity of Mercer street. No sooner, however, had she entered the door, than she was seized by two men, gagged, her wrists bound, and taken up three flights of stairs into a room apparently well-furnished. Here she was kept a close prisoner until about 5 o'clock in the afternoon of the next day, or a little more than 24 hours. Without going into the details of this imprisonment, suffice to say that every device of force and persuasion was put in requisition to induce her to accede to the wishes of the villains who made her prisoner, but without success. Force was made use of to make her drink, but she stoutly resisted, inflicting some severe wounds with her teeth upon her inhuman adversaries. Offers of money were at various times made, which she indignantly spurned.

During all this time she watched for an opportunity to escape. None, however, presented itself until late in the afternoon of the next day, when she was for a few moments left alone, though, as was supposed by her keepers, securely fastened. Reduced to desperation, she actually gnawed in two the cord which bound her wrists, seized her bonnet, and finding the door of the room unfastened, rushed out of the house and made the best of her way, more dead than alive, to her own home. On her way she met one of the villains by whom she had been imprisoned, but in the open street he dared not molest her. Her friends, alarmed at her absence, received her joyfully, and to them she related her thrilling adventure, at the same time stating she had tasted no food during the past 24 hours. On administering some nourishment to her she in a short time became delirious, and in that condition re-enacted her own part in the drama in which she had so recently been an actor, and out of which her virtue had come scatheless.

THE "GALLANT" ZOUAVE.—Not long since the notorious De Riviere delivered a lecture on "Love" in Hope Chapel, New York—a subject which, being a soldier, he is expected to understand in all its ramifications. The papers have little to say about it. There were about one hundred auditors, only four of whom were women. It is noted that the gallant lecturer gave none of his experience in the tender passion, which was as if, in the performance of Hamlet, the "Royal Dane" were omitted.

The lecture abounded in originality of thought and purity of language. The lecturer said that no man who truly loved could remain a gambler, a drunkard, or a bad man, and no woman who was in love could be a coquette or vicious. Love created a joy in the heart, while disappointment in love was the cause of grief and despair. If man would be good he must fall in love, for no vice could exist in a heart filled with that noble passion. Marriage without love, the captain condemned in toto, and commiserated the poor young girl who married against her will, and was treated by her husband with neglect. For a man to be the lover of his wife was the only way to render her happy; in a word, he should be the same to her as he was before marriage.

The lecture was listened to with much attention, and the gallant Zouave was applauded more than once during its delivery and close.

It is doubted if the Zouave wrote the lecture; but as he has been "living" with the brilliant, fascinating, pirouting Lola Montes, its authorship is laid to her "head and heart." It is surmised that they two will presently be "bone of one bone and flesh of one flesh."

MLLE PICCOLOMINI.—This new prima donna made her first appearance before an American audience at the Academy of Music, New York, on Wednesday night. The papers highly praise her. The Tribune says:

In person she is rather under the middle height. In carriage she is graceful and high bred. Her face boasts a pair of dark eyes of exceeding vitality and expression, well-turned features, and remarkable powers of mobility. Her nature evidently is quick, ardent and enthusiastic. Her voice is warmly toned, and, in the lachrymose portions of the opera, which abound, is full of the loveliness of tragic sorrow. In quality it is not of the highest rank, but the electricity of the artist lends it at the climax of intensity an expression which is apart and truly admirable. In the three acts which we heard there is no fibrid music, so we cannot judge of her ability to execute it. In declamatory and sustained singing passages, she is excellent. Her phrasing leaves nothing to be desired. Her enunciation is perfect. With a true air of high Italian nature, she is prodigal of facial expression, answering to the sentiment of the moment. As an actress, she is charming. Her play of the arms is particularly good. The last scene of the broken hearted, dying consumptive was best at the close. The tremulous agony of joy at the meeting of her lover was exquisitely faithful to nature. The impression left on us was not that of a grand, but a beautiful artist—finished and fascinating. The applause of the audience was heartiest at the end, when M'lle Piccolomini received the honor of a triple call before the curtain.

LIBERAL REWARD.—A pocket book containing $5000 was dropped in the street on Monday last, by a visitor to the fair, and found by a little girl who honestly returned it to the owner, in consideration of which service, she was presented with the handsome and liberal reward of 12½ cents worth of candy, which he purchased at Daughtrey's confectionary.—Peters. Press.

A Keokuk paper gives a distressing account of things in Iowa, comparing its condition to that of the "doomed city of Jerusalem." They have creditors without and creditors within; every man is a lawyer, every other man virtually a pauper, and all standing in listless and unprofitable idleness, except the police and constables.

THE LATE CHRISTIAN WULFF.

We published in our issue of week before last an account of the death of Miss HELENE WULFF, of Copenhagen, who perished on board the ill-fated Austria. The article which we inserted was from the Newbern Daily Progress, and in those touching paragraphs justice is done to the sisterly affection of the late Miss Wulff, and allusion made to her "watching beside the bed of sickness and of pain" of her brother, who breathed his last at Beaufort, N. C., in the summer of 1856. We find the following obituary notice of Captain Wulff in the Raleigh North Carolina Standard of 25th June of that year, written by our friend, W. V. Geffroy, Esq., a citizen of Elizabeth City, but now residing in Washington:

OBITUARY.

"The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour,
The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

Died in Beaufort, Carteret, after a brief illness, on the 7th inst., Captain Christian Wulff, of the Danish Navy, aged 46 years.

Occupying the distinguished and eminent position of a captain in the Navy of his country, and wearing the insignia of high official honors, his untimely death must, when known to his distant kindred and friends, strike sorrow into every heart. Contemplating a tour through the United States with unmingled pleasure; anticipating much profit and instruction from a visit to our principal cities, an All-Wise Providence in the unsearchable wisdom of His decrees, called him away ere his wishes could be realized. Surely, with Mr. Burke can be said, "what shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue."

Far away from country, and in a land of strangers, near the ocean's grand and sublime expanse, he lies in his cold tomb, by the sea-side. His revered brow felt the attention of a sister's ardent love, but kindness could not stay the destroyer's hand, when the summons came from on high—

"Child of dust come away."

The honored flag of his beloved Denmark no more shall float over him, nor shall martial music greet his ear, nor the proud ship that walked him over the wide waters, carry him again, for he has now verified the aphorism that "the glories of our mortal state are shadows, not substantial things." Let mourning relatives and friends reflect upon the probity and uprightness of his life, and cherish in their heart of hearts, his example and his memory as a precious legacy!

In obedience to an irreversible law of nature, Captain Christian Wulff has ended his earthly career. Neither sorrow nor tears can call him back again, to those who loved him with an idolizing affection. It is a consoling reflection, and one that can assuage the bosom's silent but keenest grief, that he died a firm and consistent Christian. He has exchanged a cup of bitterness, for unending joy and happiness, reserved for the "finally faithful." But to the lone sister upon this foreign shore, by the great Soother and Sustainer of bereaved hearts, pour into her soul the balm of consolation, and teach her that although her brother's visible form is moulering beneath the sod, yet his spirit hovers around her with its holy unseen presence. KANSAS ELECTION.

From Kansas Herald of Freedom, Oct. 16.

CONSERVATIVES TRIUMPHANT.—The Republican journals of Kansas are claiming a majority of radicals in the next Territorial Legislature. On a careful examination of the returns already in our possession, we find the conservative Free State men, and Democrats, have twenty-four out of the forty-nine members. These two parties will be able to act together to prevent hasty and inconsiderate legislation, and will cheerfully co-operate in preparing a healthy code of laws for the Territory. If Brown and Nemaha counties shall have elected a Democrat man, and Marshall shall have elected another, as we presume is the case, the conservatives will have twenty-six in the Legislature. We are satisfied with the result in the Territory, as we know our friends will be, and we trust our radical opponents will find equal cause for rejoicing.

MARRIED,

In this Town, at the residence of Dr. Davis Grice, on Tuesday morning, Nov. 4, by the Rev. E. M. Forbes, Mr. A. H. HUDSEY, of Norfolk county, Va., to Miss CAROLINE, second daughter of the late William Charles, of Pasquotank.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The following item was published a short time since in the Edenton Express:

"Mr. Edwin and Thos. Evans for negro trading. Convicted, fined $100, and held in a bond of $500 for good behavior twelve months." The undersigned is the individual referred to in the Express, and the statement is without the least shadow of truth to sustain it. I have never been indicted for negro trading or any other kind of trading, and how the editor could be so grossly misrepresented me I am at a loss to know. I am in utter ignorance of everything pertaining to this charge, and can conscientiously say that there is not an individual in the country more violently opposed to all infringment of the law than myself; and none that would go further to punish any one convicted of dealing in negroes. It is not a light thing to be thus held up to the public in the columns of a newspaper as "trading with negroes," and as having been indicted and convicted of the offence; and the public should know more of the value of private character before it again presumes to arraign an innocent individual for so disreputable a crime.

A VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE
IN NORFOLK CO., VA.

IT lies on the Dismal Swamp Canal, about 7 miles from Deep Creek and 14 from Norfolk, and contains from 1200 to 1500 acres, about 150 to 200 of which are now in arable order, the balance in original forest.

The soil is adapted to the production of Indian corn and other crops usually cultivated in that section. About 5 or 600 acres of the tract would make as fine a farm as any in Eastern Virginia; adjoining lands of similar quality unimproved, have produced from 14 to 15 barrels of corn per acre, and the wood and timber on the land would pay every expense of clearing, when it would be worth $50 per acre.

It presents, also, great facilities for carrying on the wood business. Immense quantities of the best quality could be sold at paying prices at Norfolk or on the Canal bank, along which the land stretches for several miles. The facilities of water carriage would also render the trucking business profitable.

There is a large Juniper swamp on the tract, valuable for its rail and shingle timber.

The pasturage and range for Stock is unsurpassed. A free School is within one mile of the dwelling. Persons desirous of purchasing are referred to Messrs. George T. Wallace and John West, who live near the place, and to Mr. Benjamin T. Tatem, near Norfolk, who will take pleasure in showing the land.

For further information and terms, which will be liberal, apply to

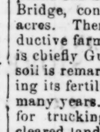
A VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE.



THE subscriber offers for sale ASPENWOOD, situated in Mount Pleasant, Norfolk County, Va., within one mile of the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal, and distant seven miles from Great Bridge, containing by estimation five hundred acres. There is not a more beautiful and productive farm in this section of the country. It is chiefly Gum land of the best quality. The soil is remarkably fertile, and durable, retaining its fertility under the severest tillage, for many years. There is a sufficiency of high land for trucking or other purposes. All of the cleared land is well drained, and under a fine state of cultivation, and will yield over one thousand barrels of corn. There is also a deading in fine order for clearing, sufficient to yield upwards of twelve hundred barrels of corn.—A large leading ditch and private road passes through the entire tract. The buildings are in excellent order, and consist of a two story dwelling, 28 by 30 feet, with a wing extending 16 feet in the rear, finished in a neat and fashionable style. The Negro quarters are large and very comfortable; also cook house, dairy, barns, cribs, carriage houses, poultry houses, &c. The neighborhood is healthy, society good. A church and two schools within a mile. Those in want of a really valuable farm, will do well to examine this, for it is but seldom that such is offered for sale. Terms accommodating.

INFIRMARY FOR SLAVES,
ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

THE SUBSCRIBER has opened at the Marine Hospital (in a separate building) an INFIRMARY FOR INVALID SLAVES. He has ample accommodations for a limited number, and will give them his careful attention—supplying them with every necessary their case requires. An Institution of this kind offers many advantages to masters having servants afflicted with chronic or surgical diseases. And, from its economy, they are relieved of the expense and annoyance of having such upon a plantation.

The charges for Board, Medical attendance, Nursing, and Medicine, are $6 per week, payable upon the removal of the patient.

In cases requiring a surgical operation, in addition to the above rates, a fee varying from $2 to $30, in different cases, will be charged for the operation, the particulars of which may be ascertained upon application at the Infirmary.

The services of any other regular Physician will be allowed, at the expense of the master.

Persons in the country desiring to send patients to the Infirmary, or obtain information concerning it, may address the subscriber.

No contagious diseases admitted.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIDFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Colds, and the Consumption which follows, is Cold, in your Cherry Pectoral. In common use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. ELIJAH HARRIS, M. D.

ALBANY, Dec. 1, 1855.

DR. AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy I have ever used in my family ever since you furnished it, and believe it the best medicine for the purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty dive dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Feb. 7, 1856.

RESPECTED AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy I have ever used for the cure of whooping cough, croup, and the usual diseases of children. We are your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., Mowrystown, Ia., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we ever buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MACEDONIA, Va., Feb. 6, 1856.

SIR: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALTON, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1856: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the Cherry Pectoral affords relief and comfort.

ALTON HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your Cherry Pectoral has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have gone for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill; for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of STEELEVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering f

THE CITY OF THE GREAT KING;

OR JERUSALEM AS IT WAS, AS IT IS, & AS IT IS TO BE.

BY DR. J. T. BARCLAY, Late Missionary to Jerusalem. With a Steel Portrait of the Author by Sartain. Also Chromographic Illuminations in ten oil colors, Periscopic Panorama of the entire Circuit of the City and Environs, explanatory Maps, &c., by Rosenthal. Steel Engravings by Sartain. J. C. Buttre, Dick and Earle. Finest Wood Engravings by Louderback & Hoffman and J. H. Byram.

The Engravings will be executed in the highest style of art, from Photographs and original designs illustrating the various phases of the City.—

ANCIENT, MEDIEVAL, MODERN AND MILLENNIAL,

Also, Restoration of the Temple and City as invested by Titus.—Notices of its Jewish, Christian, and Heathen Antiquities—Its Present Political and Moral Condition—Future Prospects, &c.

This work is the result of investigations made during three and a half years' residence in the Holy City, with facilities for prosecuting researches never heretofore enjoyed. It was undertaken with special reference to the elucidation of the Holy Scriptures, the Talmud, the Works of Josephus, the Crusaders, and Pilgrim Chroniclers. The many valuable discoveries made in the Temple Enclosure, and other sacred localities, to which Dr. Barclay was admitted by special Firman, with permission to explore those hallowed spots, so jealously guarded for many centuries, and now for the first time presented to the Christian public, will introduce a new era in Sacred Topography.

STOVES, HOT AIR FURNACES,

FIRE-PLACE STOVES,
RANGES, CAMBOOSES, &c., &c

OUR friends and the public generally are informed, that having largely increased our facilities, we are now prepared to supply promptly all articles embraced in our line, on usual terms, (wholesale and retail) at lowest prices to punctual customers. We name in part the justly celebrated New World Cook Stove, than which there is no better Cook Stove in the country—we have also for sale the Delaware Cook, Complete Cook, Enchantress Fanny Forrester, Sunrise, Air-Tight, Morning Star, Globe, Bucks Patent, Pacific, &c.

Our assortment of Parlor, Store, Office and other Stoves is large and desirable.

We also offer to the public the Spiral Hot Air Furnace, which is so constructed as to present a very large radiating surface, without the least construction of draft, thus making it a great fuel saver, as well as an excellent heater.

Purchasers will find it decidedly to their advantage to examine our large and well selected stock before leaving their orders elsewhere.

BOOK AND STATIONERY STORE.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

W. P. GRIFFITH, having dissolved his connection with the firm of Vickery & Griffith, would respectfully inform the citizens of Elizabeth City and of the surrounding country, that he has opened at the store formerly occupied by the late Mr. R. C. Barclay,

The largest and best stock of Books and Stationery ever offered for sale in the City of Norfolk.

Believing that the wants and the tastes of the people required one establishment similar to those found in the large Northern cities, where a full and general assortment of Books can be obtained, the subscriber has been induced, during a recent visit to Philadelphia, New York and Boston, to purchase from the principal publishers, and at the great "Trade Sales," a superior stock of

School, Classical, Law, Medical, Theological, Religious and Miscellaneous

BOOKS.

Which will, upon examination, compare with any to be found in the Southern country.

My Stock of Foreign and American

STATIONERY,

Is very large and complete, it has been selected with great care, and embraces every article required for the School and Counting Room.

MY WHOLE STOCK IS ENTIRELY

—NEW.—

and has been bought upon the very best terms and a large portion for cash, which gives me a decided advantage over all other houses in the city, and will enable me to sell my goods at prices far below former rates.

Booksellers in this and adjacent Towns and Country Merchants, will find it greatly to their advantage to examine my stock before going North.

Colleges, Schools and Teachers, will be supplied at Northern prices.

By special arrangements with the following houses, I shall receive their new Books as they are issued from the Press, and will supply any or all of their publications at their prices:

AGRICULTURAL.

'YOUNG AMERICA' CORN AND COB MILL,

MANUFACTURED BY
S. MARCH, Norfolk, Va.

THE above Mill, which so far surpassed all others last season, has been improved, and made stronger and better than ever, and is now in the field carrying everything before it. It is the mill for strength, durability and swiftness.

I annex a list of premiums it has received this season, over the 'Little Giant,' 'Magic Mill,' Star Mill, Maynard's Mill, and all others that have come into competition with it:

First premium at the N. York State Fair.
First premium at the Ohio State Fair.
First premium at the Michigan State Fair.
First premium at the N. Carolina State Fair.
First premium at the Nashville (Tenn.) Fair.
First premium at one County Fair in N. York.
First premium at ten County Fairs in Ohio.
Trial of corn and cob mills at the North Carolina State Fair, October 1856.

The following table will show the time occupied by each of the Mills on exhibition in grinding half bushel of corn and cobs:

Young America,	2 minutes and 40 seconds.
Little Giant,	4	" 55	"
Magic Mill,	6	"

Sinclair & Co's Mill, two trials, average time, 6 minutes and 58 seconds.

Advantages of the Young America or Excelsior Mill over all others: 1st, great strength and durability; 2d, simplicity, (having but one set screw to graduate the quality of grinding, which renders it so simple that it may be managed by any ordinary farm hand;) 3d, it will grind more corn, or corn and cob, in the same time, and of same quality, than any other mill in use of the same size; 4th, economy—that part of the mill which is most liable to wear, being separate from the main body of the machine, can be renewed when worn out, at the small cost of $3. Thus in the Young America or Excelsior mill, I present the best, cheapest and most durable mill ever offered to the Farmer. This mill is of large size and greater capacity than any other mill ever sold at the same price.

Price, including extra plates, $50.

I am also manufacturing Cart and Wagon Wheels, Farm Wagons, Carts, Trucks, Drays, Plows, Harrows, Cultivators, Corn Shellers, and Agricultural Implements generally, and am better prepared to furnish farmers and merchants than any other house in the city.

Call and examine my stock and be convinced that it is to your interest to patronize Southern enterprize. I am unwilling to believe that all the men in Virginia and North Carolina prefer to build up the North and impoverish the South.

I have also a Foundry connected with my factory, and solicit orders for Castings generally
